

The Lowcountry Master Gardeners Association is bringing the most respected garden guru in the south,

Walter Reeves, to Beaufort.

When: Thursday, March 26th, at 1:00 PM

Where: The Auditorium of the Technical College of the Lowcountry

Beaufort Campus – 921 Ribaut Road

LMGA Members Admitted Free General Admission: $10.00

"How to be a Sherlock Holmes in Your Garden"

Ever puzzled over a diseased flower or a shrub with holes in the leaves? How can you figure out what is afflicting your plants without being a plant pathologist or an entomologist? Atlanta's garden expert, Walter Reeves, will teach you how to look for patterns in the plant damage you see. This will help you know whether a bug, a disease or something else has caused the problem. Walter will conduct a plant clinic after the lecture, so bring your weeds, insects or plant damage for Walter to inspect and lend his expertise "While You Wait!"

You can learn more about Walter at his website: <http://www.walterreeves.com/>

He is the author of 9 books about gardening and hosts the TV show "Your Southern Garden" aired on public television.

--